Coastal Adaptation Strategy

Safeguarding our communities from coastal hazards

It has been identified that the coastline along the Limestone Coast has experienced coastal erosion and inundation, and it is expected that this is likely to increase in future years. The District Council of Grant acknowledges these hazards and has commenced a joint project, with the District Council of Robe and Wattle Range Council, to develop strategies to reduce the risk of erosion and inundation.

The project aims to identify hazards and associated risks for each coastal township by 2050 and up to the year 2100, and evaluate options to adapt and protect our communities into the future. The District Council of Grant will specifically focus on creating adaptation strategies for the following townships:

- Carpenter Rocks;
- Pelican Point;
- Blackfellows Caves;
- Nene Valley;
- Cape Douglas;
- Port MacDonnell;
- Racecourse Bay;
- Eight Mile Creek; and
- Donovans.

Get Involved

Property owners within the District Council of Grant's coastal communities and other interested parties are invited to attend a Community Workshop. These workshops will allow you to better understand and ask questions about the potential impacts of coastal erosion and flooding in the district from Council's coastal management expert, and provide your input on adaptation options for Council to implement to safeguard your township.

The first round of Community Workshops were held in March 2025.

Additional workshops will be held once a Draft Coastal Adaptation Strategy has been created. These workshops will provide our community the opportunity to review the draft document with a coastal management expert and submit your feedback on the adaptation strategies proposed. The second round of workshops are scheduled to occur:

- Wednesday 7 May 2025 at the Donovans Community Hall (10 Adams Street, Donovans) - 4:00pm to 5:00pm
- Wednesday 7 May 2025 at the Port MacDonnell Community Complex (5-7 Charles Street, Port MacDonnell) - 6:00pm to 8:00pm
- Thursday 8 May 2025 at the Carpenter Rocks Community Hall (26-44 Carpenter Rocks Road, Carpenter Rocks) - 6:00pm to 8:00pm

Next steps

Broader community consultation will follow both rounds of workshops allowing the wider District Council of Grant community an opportunity to review the Draft Coastal Adaptation Strategy and provide feedback.

Upon closure of consultation, all feedback received from the workshops and consultation period will be reviewed by the District Council of Grant and Council's coastal management expert. Amendments will be made to the Draft Coastal Adaptation Strategy, where appropriate, before the final strategy is presented to Council for endorsement.

Each session was run by experienced instructors from the YMCA's Action Sports Team and lasted approximately an hour.

Local young people of all skill levels and abilities took part in the hands-on sessions that focused on both skateboarding and scooting. Attendees also learnt about skate skill development, injury prevention, skate park etiquette and equipment maintenance.

New report supports changing date of council elections to increase voter participation

Holding local government elections the year after state elections would help reduce voter fatigue and increase participation rates, according to LGA South Australia.

Electoral Commission of South Australia's 2022 Council Election Report was tabled in parliament on Thursday by Local Government Minister the Hon Joe Szakacs MP, recommending 19 legislative changes for the state government to consider before the next council elections take place in 18 months' time.

One recommendation is to change the fixed date of local government elections to the second Saturday in November in the year following a state election to "support the provision of high quality and best practice electoral services" for SA communities.

LGA President, Mayor Heather Holmes-Ross said councils voted to pursue such a change at last year's LGA Annual General Meeting as it has the potential to increase voter participation, which saw only a marginal 1.3% bump to 32.9% from the 2018 elections.

"While 43.3% of regional voters voluntarily cast their ballot in the 2022 council elections, that number was much fewer in metropolitan areas where only 29.6% of eligible voters participated," Mayor Holmes-Ross said.

"Deciding who represents you and your community on council is extremely important and as a sector, we want as many eligible people as possible to exercise their democratic right to vote in local government elections,"

"In 2022, South Australians went to the polls three times - first for state elections, then for federal elections and by the time council elections arrived, many voters already felt fatigued,"

"And that's excluding several by-elections that also took place. LGA welcomes the recommendation from the Electoral Commission to shift local government elections to the year after state elections and also the opportunity to work with the Minister and state government on any provisional transitions that would enable this to occur."

Supporting further reform, the Hon Frank Pangallo MLC recently introduced the Local Government (Elections) (Australian Citizen and Compulsory Voting) Amendment Bill into parliament which, if passed, would only permit Australian citizens to vote in council elections and also making voting compulsory.

While councils agree mandatory voting would lead to higher participation rates, it needs to be made clear how this is costed to ensure no increased financial burden would be placed onto communities.

Mayor Holmes-Ross said LGA was keen to continue discussions with councils and parliamentarians about the best avenue to increase voter participation in local government elections.

"We know voter participation numbers in council elections have remained fairly stagnant for a while now and if there are ways we can improve uptake through legislative change, then that's something we're keen to explore. Democracy works best when everyone participates. When people choose not to vote in local elections, they give up their say on decisions that affect their neighbourhoods, families and futures. Better community representation starts with higher voter turnout,"

"Council elections determine who will advocate for your community on important issues like local infrastructure - such as parks, playgrounds and sports centres - or deciding which services your rates are invested in. It is crucial people have their say."

LGA also eagerly awaits direction from the state government on its 2023 Local Government Participation and Elections Review, which sought feedback on how communities can better engage with their councils, particularly at election time.
